NEW HIGH RECORD ON FRIDAY FOR ATTENDANCE AT EXPOSITION

Insistent Buyer Reduces One Exhibitor's Stock and Buys Car, Also—"Eagle-Eye Dick's" Assistant Plays Mean Trick on Him.

The Exposition on Friday evening drew the largest attendance yet, so large that the total attendance for the day made a new high record in spite of the fact that the threatening weather in the afternoon deterred people from the outlying towns from coming. But some of them were there, interested and delighted. The exhibit in Gregory & Company's booth was temporarily depleted early in the evening by one sewing machine which so pleased a visitor from Sandown that he insisted on paying for it and taking it home with him. While paying for the sewing machine the purchaser casually mentioned that he would have been in earlier if he hadn't spent some time in the automobile tent, where he had bought a Buick car. The Gregory exhibit has also sold a washing machine to a visitor from Savannah, Georgia, and a suite of expensive furniture with some extra pieces from the Schilling Company to an Exposition visitor from New York city.

Is the Exposition a success? Ask Wesley Gregory.

Senters of attraction in the automobile tent Friday evening were the camp trailer shown by George J. Schryver, the 1904 and 1923 Cadillac shown by the Ulster Garage, and John R. Millard standing midway between a Ford and a Lincoln car and trying to look at both at the same time.

The winners in the model contest at the exposition are Miss Thelma Durr, first in senior models with Miss Estella Rodgers a close second and Miss Priscilla Davis first prize winner in the junior models. All prizes are being donated by the different merchants.

WHAT THEY WORE AT THE FINAL EXPOSITION STYLE SHOW

In viewing the last Fashion Show of the Exposition Friday evening, it was plain to be seen that "there's a season" why Kingston folks are so well dressed. Their merchants have educated them up to an extraordinary appreciation of good clothes, and then have seen to it that they could secure such clothes right here at home.

The young ladies and children acting as models have done so with a charm of manner and grace that was admirable, and moreover all of the young people have been fortunate in having that "air" that carries off good clothes by adding to their good looks.

The models and the garments they wore were as follows:

For the Wonderly Company:

Miss Catherine Myers, peacock blue, brocaded satin negligee, georgette trimmed. Black satin boudoir slippers from Stelle's.

Miss Gladys Hopper, light blue crepe de chine negligee, pleated double-faced ribbon trimmed; pink satin slippers from Stelle's.

Miss Gladys Hopper, old blue panne velvet dress, draped effect with silver cloth trimming.

For the S. E. Bighmy Company:

Miss Jones, gray tweed knickers, white skating sweater, white knitted skating cap, dark gray sport hose, gray knit gauntlet gloves, dark brown brogue oxford of E. T. Stelle & Son and carried white volley ball of C. A. Warren's.

Miss Jones, navy blue, gray and tan box pleated sport skirt; Navajo sweater of all-over design of tan and blue; navy blue angora scarf; tan angora sport hat with blue quill; dark brown brogue oxford from Stelle's.

Miss Keogan, black and white striped, box-pleated skirt; black sweater with white linen collar and cuffs; black angora scarf with border of white and green; black felt hat with gray quill; black patent leather pumps from Stelle's.

Miss Keogan, heavy gray, mixture sport coat with rolling raccoon collar; gray velour hat.

(For children)

Ruth King, tan rain coat and hat to match carrying small black umbrella; shoes covered with rubbers.

Ruth King, heavy brown mixture sport coat; tan and brown corduroy sport hat; carrying small leather purse and pair of dark brown interlined kid gloves; dark brown oxford from Stelle's.

For Rose-Gorman-Rose Company:

Miss Kelsey, brown chintilly frock over chameuse; brown marvellous coat, fringe trimmed, scarf collar; panne velvet hat turned away from face; patent leather and brocade pumps.

Miss Kelsey, gown of navy blue point with gold stitching; brown coat with marten opossum collar and cuffs; fur of brown velvet full report.

ANNUAL MEETING ULSTER COUNTY CHAPTER AMERICAN RED CROSS

Near East Relief Found to be Organization's Most Pressing Duty—Chapter to Secure Nurse—Reports Made—Election of Officers Tuesday.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross was held at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday afternoon, the chairman, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, presiding. There were a number of out-of-town as well as Kingston members present.

In opening the meeting, Judge Hasbrouck called attention to the one immediate, big Red Cross work to be undertaken, that of emergency relief for Smyrna and the Near East. He further called attention to the fact that America's assistance at this time, moral as well as financial, is doubly needed because of the apparently increasingly deplorable conditions throughout all of Europe but especially in Smyrna and in Russia, even if we have not been successful in the later instance through no fault of the Red Cross.

Judge Hasbrouck stated that in the coming roll call, the Near East relief, which the American Red Cross is pre-eminently fitted to undertake is the first and most important reason to be presented for renewing Red Cross memberships or taking out new memberships. Then there is the work of the Home Service section giving aid, relief and information to our ex-service men, a work which the judge considered the chapter might well be proud of as accomplished in our county by Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, the secretary of the Home service section. That work must be carried on by the Red Cross just as long as there are ex-service men needing any aid. And finally there is much public health work which the Chapter should be doing, and which it undertook in a small way with just one visiting nurse in the past.

Judge Hasbrouck then read the following telegram received from headquarters at Washington:

Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck
Ulster County A. R. C.
Kingston, N. Y.

You will be guided by the following. The assumption by Red Cross of responsibility for furnishing adequate and thorough emergency relief in Europe to Near East refugees victims of Smyrna disaster involves Red Cross in heavy expenditures from its funds and presents each Chapter with opportunity actively to participate in this emergency relief through contributions to National Red Cross of any chapter surplus funds not needed for financing chapters' local programs. Such contributions must be sent only to division officers and no contribution is authorized to be made from Chapter funds to any other group or in any other manner. This applies also to Junior funds whether in custody of Chapters or of Junior Committees, which should be notified accordingly. By national agreement Red Cross Chapters should restrict to regular Roll Call period active participation in special campaign for Near East Emergency Fund.

(Signed)
MRS. JOHN ALLEN DOUGHERTY,
Manager Washington Division.

The chairman next called for the report of the work for the past year of the Home Service Section which Mrs. Hasbrouck gave as follows:

Report submitted by the secretary, Home Service Section, Ulster County Chapter, of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Chairman:

It gives me great pleasure to submit the fourth annual report of the Home Service Section of the Ulster County Chapter, A. R. C. This report includes the work done since our last annual meeting, which occurred on October 26, 1921.

From October 26, 1921, to October 27, 1922, we report as follows: Visits made to families of ex-service men, 94.

Office calls from disabled men or their families, 298.

Letters received and sent, 877.

Compensation claims made out, affidavits drawn up in support of same, and discharges copied, 155.

Telegrams and telephone messages received and sent, 312.

Total number of times assistance has been given in these different ways, 2,188.

Checking account, H. S. S. A. R. C., $2,700.

These comparatively few statistics represent a really very large amount of assistance given the ex-service men of Ulster county, also the holding out of a helping hand to the stranger ex-service man passing through our gates.

The next report to be given was that of the former Red Cross visiting nurse, Miss Dunne and was as follows:

Report of visits to patients by Red Cross nurse, for the Ulster County Chapter, A. R. C., from November 1, 1921, to June 30, 1922.

This report covers the eight months as follows:

November 9 visits, 9 patients.

December, 24 visits, 15 patients.

January, 72 visits, 26 patients.

February, 119 visits, 43 patients.

March, 69 visits, 25 patients.

April, 52 visits, 34 patients.

May, 76 visits, 29 patients.

June, 37 visits, 12 patients.

Total, 458 visits, 193 patients.

The services of the visiting nurse were discontinued the first of July and on the first of August one of the offices occupied by the Red Cross Chapter was discontinued.

The treasurer's report was then given by E. E. Ougheltrie and proved to be a lengthy and somewhat complicated document showing the necessity for the chapter to set about reinforcing its funds. The accounts had been audited by Charles De La Vergne and found correct. It was voted to accept all of the foregoing reports with thanks and to have them placed on file.

A very brief report of the District Red Cross meeting recently held in Albany was given by Mrs. C. N. Reed, one of the delegates to the session, in which she told of the efficient report given by an equally efficient Red Cross public health nurse, as showing exactly what Ulster county should have. Mrs. Reed, recalling that of the Ulster county each year, told of the work while work of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps of Schenectady, suggesting that in the summer time such a Red Cross activity might save many lives in our own county.

Just as Mrs. Reed had finished telling about the Red Cross nurse at Albany there arrived, opportunely—no, better still, providentially—the pleasant young woman who is the supervising nurse for the counties of Ulster, Orange, Delaware and Sullivan, and further explained the work of a Red Cross public nurse, making it exceedingly plain that Ulster county needs such a nurse and that she will not be duplicating any other work in the county. Judge Hasbrouck explained that the National Red Cross in supplying such nurses required the purchase and use of a Ford car for the nurse, making the yearly expenditure of the public health nursing project to be about $3,000. It was voted without a dissenting voice that the chapter should secure the services of such Red Cross certified nurse for the coming year.

MARINE BAND HERE TOMORROW

Few Seats Left, None Reserved—Rotary Boys' Work Fund Seems Likely to be Swelled.

Advance sale of tickets for the Marine Band Concerts Sunday afternoon at 3:30 and Sunday evening at 9 indicate a huge attendance at both concerts. The Marine Band has never appeared in Kingston and is not easy to get for a small city. The Rotary Club had to put up a guarantee and incur expenses aggregating about $2,000 in order to give Kingston this musical treat, but the prospect now is that there will be a substantial profit left for use in carrying on the Club's work among boys and crippled children.

As there are no reserved seats, it behooves those who want the best place to come to the armory early. All the chairs that Arthur Carr owns or could borrow from the other funeral directors in town will be placed in the Armory-Sunday, in addition to the seats already there and it is hoped that nobody will have to stand.

BREAK IN ELECTRIC SERVICE SUNDAY

Tomorrow the Kingston Gas and Electric Company will continue the work on changing over its electric distribution system from 2 phase to 3 phase current. The section south of Broadway and west of the West Shore Railroad tracks will be affected. The section north of Broadway and west of Clinton avenue will also be affected. The work will be started at six o'clock a. m., and will continue through the day until service has been completely restored. Service will be interrupted at 6 a. m., and will be re-established as quickly as possible, the important points affected being cared for first. Particular attention will be paid to the establishment of service for the churches.

It is of extreme importance that the company be allowed access to the properties of consumers so that the direction of rotation may be checked.

ARMISTICE DANCE FUNDS NEEDED

From the enthusiasm shown at the meeting of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion and the Auxiliary dance committee at the Armory Thursday evening the annual Armistice Dance of the local post which will be held Armistice Eve Friday, November 10, should be a success. Members of the Legion feeling that the city is well canvassed for patrons to support events held by charitable institutions throughout the year, the idea of soliciting patrons for the Legion dance was opened to a broad discussion and finally agreed upon.

Dr. William G. Cranston, acting commander of Kingston Post, has hopes that those solicited to purchase tickets will help the Legion in this endeavor to raise funds, which will be used in a charitable way to provide for ex-service men and their families who are in need through sufferings brought on due to the World War.

DREW A GUN AND SHOT AT GLOVER

Drunken Italian From Hudson Pulls Gun on Ann Street Man in Ferry Waiting Room—Hearing is Adjourned to November 3—Italian in Jail.

Peter J. Glover of No. 86 Ann street, colored chauffeur employed by Joseph Block, the lower Broadway drygoods merchant, walked into the waiting room of the Rhinebeck ferry on Ferry street Friday evening. He saw an Italian, who he said was drunk, fumbling with an overcoat that lay on the bench.

As Glover walked by the Italian he was startled to hear the roar of a revolver, and turning quickly saw that the Italian had sent a bullet through the floor close to his foot. The Italian then left and Officer Ray Saeffholt later arrested him.

According to the police records, the Italian, who was later found to be Rosario Rizzo, had gone to Riber's store on the Strand and sold the gun which Officer Saeffholt later recovered from Riber. When the Italian was arrested he had already disposed of the gun, but still had a supply of ammunition.

This morning in police court the Italian, who was sober after spending the night in jail, was represented by Judge W. D. Brininger, Jr., who entered a plea of not guilty on behalf of his client and the hearing was adjourned to the morning of November 3. Judge Robert G. Groves fixed the amount of bail at $500.

Unable to furnish the amount of the bail Rizzo was taken back to the county jail.

"DROWNED LANDS" CASE DECIDED

Court of Appeals Hands Down Decision Foreclosing Further Appeal, and Divine Must Now Pay Damages.

Final court proceedings in the case of Augustus Geiger against Dwight Divine of Ellenville, arising out of the overflowing of the lands of the plaintiff in the "Drowned Lands" section of the town of Wawarsing, were taken by the court of appeals at Albany on Friday when that court handed down a decision denying the motion recently made by the defendant-appellant for leave to bring its appeal to that court.

The effect of the decision is to foreclose Mr. Divine from further appeal.

Throughout the proceedings Cleon B. Murray of Ellenville has represented Mr. Geiger with Amos Van Etten of this city, of counsel. Judge Clearwater has represented Mr. Divine.

Three other suits against Mr. Divine for flooding the lands of owners whose property is near that of Mr. Geiger are now pending.

The motion decided Friday by the court of appeals was denied with $10 costs and the necessary printing disbursements. In addition to the stipulated damages of $1,000 which Divine must pay, the costs in the case now amount to more than $1,000.

LITTLE BLACK SQUEALER

He was a little black pig, scarcely a month old and he had been sent as a present to a head keeper in a zoo. Later he was going to be taken to a nice farm, but for the present he was staying in his zoo home.

He had a nice little house and whenever any one came near him he would grunt as hard as he could, for he was a little lonely by himself and animals talk more when they are lonely, you know.

Then they will make many sounds, but when they are together and contented they are very quiet.

"Why talk," most of them seem to feel, "when we're perfectly satisfied?" But the little pig loved the sound of a human voice and so he grunted when anyone came near him, for he wanted to talk when there was so little opportunity for doing so.

Of course he squealed when he was excited, but grunting noises were the ones he made at all other times.

He was gentle, for pigs are very nice that way—they do not wish to do anyone harm.

He had been named Little Black Squealer and he seemed to like his name.

Every day he was given bran and milk, and every morning the goats in the zoo let him have a quart of their fine milk. Oh yes, the goats were very obliging and helpful in the zoo.

Sometimes Little Black Squealer was given some milk, but he would not be eating grass or weeds or vegetables for several months to come. He was too young for such food.

Now a friend of the keeper's went to visit Little Black Squealer and what a time they had!

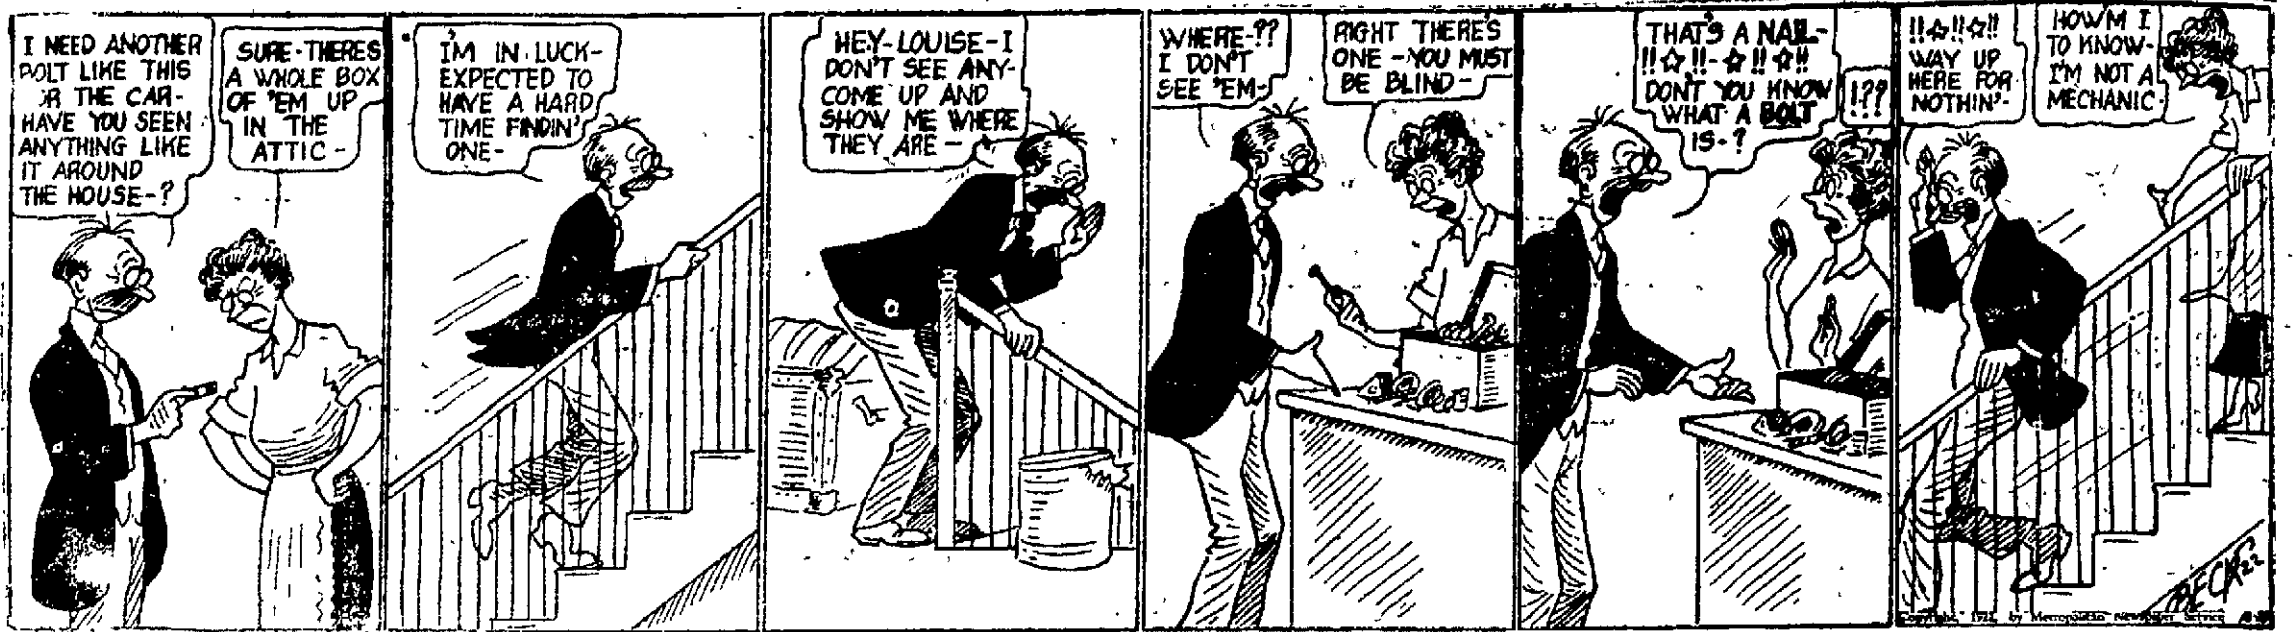

There were three of them having a chat together, Little Black Squealer, a keeper and the visitor.

Now Little Black Squealer had bran and milk over the door of his house and so excited was he when he found he was having visitors that he rushed along his floor and slipped so that some of the bran and milk hit the visitor.

But it did not hurt her and she was delighted at the eagerness and nice cordial ways of Little Black Squealer.

He got up on his hind feet and put his front ones against the boards of his house and when he thought his visitors were going to leave and pay

SOMETHING TO EAT

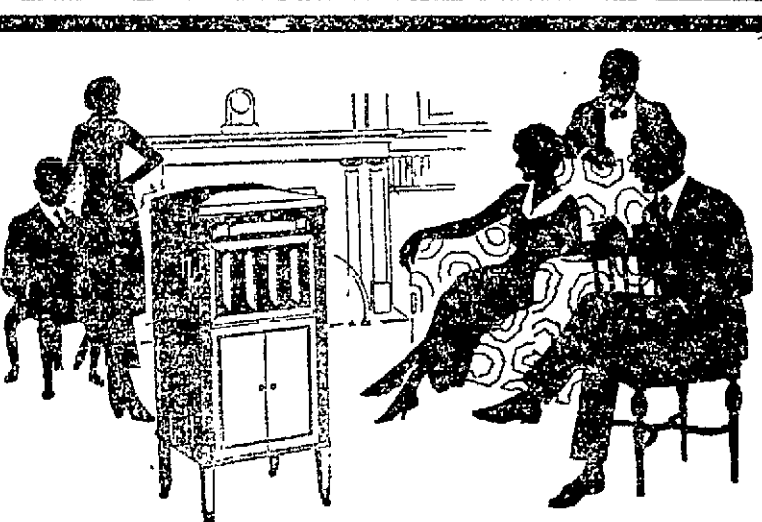

With a few boxes of gelatin in the house and a little forethought, many delicious desserts may be prepared. Apple Charlotte.—Take one-half of an envelope of sparkling gelatin and one-fourth of a cup of cold water, and when softened add one-half cupful of boiling water. Add one cupful of sugar and two tablespoonsful of lemon juice; cool and add one cupful of cooked apple pulp. Cool and when the mixture begins to thicken beat with a wire whisk until light, then add two well-beaten whites and beat well. Turn into a mold lined with lady fingers or cake. Serve with whipped cream.

Rice With Pineapple.—Soak one-half package of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water, then add one-half cupful of scalding hot pineapple juice, one-half cupful of sugar, and one cupful of cooked rice, one teaspoonful of salt, and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Turn into a mold lined with slices of canned pineapple. Chill and serve with whipped cream. Two egg whites may be used in place of whipped cream.

Toasted Sandwiches.—Mix two tablespoonsful of salad oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paprika, with one-half cupful of cottage cheese or thick cream. Spread on one-fourth inch slices of Graham bread, then sprinkle with chopped walnut meats. Put together in pairs and cut in finger shaped pieces and toast.

Cantaloupe Pickle.—An unripe cantaloupe makes a very good pickle. Cut the melon in sections and remove the seeds. Soak in a salt solution, using one-quarter of a cupful of salt, to a quart of water. Drain and add to the following sirup: Four cupfuls of water, four cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of allspice and cloves; put spice in small bag and cook with the melon. Boil ten minutes and let the fruit stand in the sirup all night. Drain, boil the sirup, add the fruit and cook until the cantaloupe is clear. Seal in hot jars.

For pigs do not care about being held.

But he was willing and ready to be made a pet of and he was ready to promise that he would follow his keeper around, which promise he would have kept, for he was anxious to be a pet.

He did not bother much about sleeping, for he was so young and the world was so new to him and he wanted to see and do all he could.

Later on, when things were less new and less exciting he would sleep more.

He had never had his back scratched before by his little pig life.

And the keeper and the visitor taught the little pig the delights of back scratching by scratching his for him.

How amply he learned to love it! Soon he was spreading out his back and lying down in the very best position for back scratching.

Oh yes, back scratching was very pleasant, and so were visitors and so was bran and milk and so was the world in general.

It was a joy indeed to be Little Black Squealer Pig. He didn't care if he didn't grow up to be famous or wise or rich or prosperous.

He didn't care for any of these things, for he knew the joys of pleasant meals and visitors and back scratching and games and playing.

And these joys were so real, so real and nice to a little month old pig!

My! My! Ain't It Fine!
It was early in the morning. He swung wide the massive portal, sweeping the interior with a piercing glance. Ten men sprang to their places and came to a swift attention before his severe scrutiny. There was a tense silence—no word uttered. He calmly passed down the row of uniformed men standing at attention. Then, with a sudden energy, he flung off his collar. He swung around, he faced the waiting line. His face was dark and his glance was keen and stern. He picked his man. He advanced with a firm but cautious tread. He stepped two feet away. In a low voice, full of meaning, he said, "I want a shave and a 'cut'—Gargeryla."

A Hard Winter Coming.
An Indianapolis young man asked a girl to marry him, one beautiful night this last summer, when everything seemed bright for him. The first cool day this month the young man wrote the following note to his betrothed:
"Dear: Postpone wedding until next summer. Winter is coming, be cool, no new clothes, no rubs in entry and lots of bills coming in."

Colors in the Fall.

A desirable tree for brilliant fall color is the sour gum or tupelo. This makes a large almost round-headed tree with very dark green foliage in the summer and brilliant red leaves in the autumn. Even as early as August there may be a few scattered leaves that change color, giving promise of the brilliancy that is to follow. The tree is common in New England and the northern and eastern states.

The scarlet oak is even brighter than the red oak in its fall colors and is equally as brilliant as the gums, says the American Forestry Magazine. Its foliage being more finely divided than that of the red oak gives it a lighter, more airy appearance, while the red of its leaves is most emphatic. It is widely distributed throughout the eastern half of the country.

In marked contrast to the brilliant reds of some trees in the fall is the yellow of the sugar or hard maple. This is a native of gravelly and other well-drained soils of the northern states and southward in and near the mountains. It reaches its greatest perfection in western New England, New York, Ohio and Kentucky.

With a Preview.

Mary had been frightened by a large dog barking at her while she was walking with her mother. From that time all dogs that approached within a few feet of her caused her to cry and run to her parents for protection. A few evenings ago some friends called at the house, bringing with them a puppy. Like all dogs of that age, he was playful, cute, and friendly. Mary, who in her mother's lap, gazed at the puppy for a moment as he stood looking at her, and then said, "Don't bark, doggie, 'n' I like you."

Rush for Ferry Once Grand March.
Capt. Philip Reynolds, who operated a passenger steamer—the Admiral—on the York river, between West Point, Va., and Baltimore, following the Civil war period, described in a southern paper the enormous difference between boarding a ferry-boat then and now, especially for ladies. It was an old custom of the region for lady passengers to wait to be escorted on and off the steamer. When the boat made a landing the ladies would gather in the salon of the main deck and wait until the captain came down from the pilot house to lead them to the dock. He would approach the eldest lady of the waiting group and walk with her down the stairway to the landing place, she leaning on his arm. The rest of the ladies would follow, servants with luggage bringing up the rear.

Indian Burial Places Preserved.

It is said that all the graveyards used by the first white settlers were old Indian burial places which had been used by the aborigines for that purpose from time immemorial. Where these Indian burial places were on the homesteads of settlers they respected these graves and they were never disturbed. The whites continued to use them as burial places for their families and slaves. It was a custom in the early days to bury slaves beside their masters, and a certain portion of the family plot was reserved for their use. The colonists in continuing to use these aboriginal burial places rendered this country a signal service in preserving from oblivion the last resting places of a vanished race.

How Egyptian Think.

I chanced to be at Imballia, Egypt, when an aviator was to make what was considered, at that time, an important flight from Suex to Port Said. He was to pass along the route of the canal. Everyone was watching for him. Finally he appeared far to the south, a little dot in the air that gradually grew larger. The Europeans expressed their enthusiasm by cheers and waving. Not far from me a Bedouin sat by the side of his camel, intently watching the approaching airplane. I said to him: "What do you think of that?" With a calm, contemptuous look he remarked laconically, "An invention of your devil, not of your God," and stroked on leaning his camel by the nose. By a French Resident in L'Opinion.

In Cages, Not in Dorned.

Buddy, age three, was making his daily call, when Mr. H— asked him whether he was going to work in his father's grocery store and whether he was going to cut the meat or put the sugar in packages.

Buddy said that he intended to help the butcher by cutting up the chickens. He was asked whether chickens were in demand.

The little caller then answered very quickly that the chickens were not in demand but that they were in back of the store in cages.

DEADLY "BOTULISM."

Prussic acid, formerly regarded as the deadliest poison, is said to be rendered relatively mild through the discovery or identification by Harvard Medical School experiment of the "bacteria of botulism," a poison about a million times as deadly. It has been calculated that if a gallon of this "heli broth" were stirred into an ocean a mere injection of its salt water would kill a mouse if not a man. It is fortunate that this frightful poison is rare, yet somewhat disquieting to learn that it may develop in canned food in the form of a sort of million-power ptomaine poison.

At the present time the English public is disturbed over the death of six persons in Scotland from poisoning traced to sandwiches made of potted grouse, and these are said to be the first known cases in Great Britain. "A considerable part of the known cases of true botulism," says the Springfield Republican, "have occurred in the United States, but since in 22 years only 111 persons, the world over, are known to have died of this disease, the danger is insignificant, and certainly need spoil no one's appetite for canned food. But it goes without saying that health authorities can not be too vigilant in following up every known case, in seizing and examining suspected food products, and in seeking to prevent the infection of food with a poison in comparison with which prussic acid is almost benign." It is further stated that there is no evidence that the disease is increasing, and that, the danger being now fully recognized, there is no reason why the careless preservation of food should not be prevented, and the spread of the disease effectually checked.

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

Democratic editors who drew a parallel between the Wilson letter of 1918 and the Harding letter of 1922, bearing upon the Congressional elections, fail to note two important differences. Just a few weeks before issuing his letter, President Wilson asked that "politics be adjourned," and the Republicans tell in with the request. Then on the eve of election, Wilson issued his call for election of a Democratic Congress. President Harding has made no suggestion that politics be adjourned. Again, Wilson asked for the election of a Democratic Congress not on the record of that Congress but as an expression of confidence in him. Harding did not try to make himself an issue to any extent. He commended the work of Congress and indicated his opinion that the record of the Republican Congress justifies a vote of approval. This is a Congressional and not a Presidential campaign. Harding has observed the proprieties which Wilson violated.

To vote is the most important duty of the citizen. It is the only effective act by which the citizen exercises his power as an integral part of a self-governing people. So far as national affairs are concerned, the issue is fairly clear—whether the people of the country prefer to continue Republican control of Congress or wish to return to Democratic policies. The issues have been very thoroughly discussed on the stump and in the press. The Democratic regime is not so far away but that its record can be fairly well remembered. The Republicans have had only 20 months of full control of the affairs of the Government and have not yet had time to complete their program, but the record is extensive enough to enable the average voter to compare it with the record of the previous Democratic administration. The question is whether the country wants to go back to Democratic rule. Be careful how you vote.

The French minister of commerce complains that the present simplicity of styles has ruinously reduced France's enormous export trade in women's wearing apparel and he wants a minister of fashion in the cabinet to provide a remedy. This recalls the dictum of Lady Duff Gordon, the New York designer of expensive clothes for women, that Paris as a leader of fashion has seen its last days. It would seem, however, that this dictum must be judged in connection with the fact that fashionable American women.

Lloyd George is not only the most adroit and versatile politician in the world, but he seems to be a campaign orator of surpassing power. Of his Manchester speech in defense of the British government's course in the Near East it is reported that "he turned upon his assailants and poured upon them the scorn and ridicule of which he is so astonishing a master," that he "sailed forth to make a kind of Cromwellian slaughter of his enemies," and that "never was such execution done in a single oration."

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Which are our smallest birds?
2. Are there any albino snakes?
3. Kindly tell me how to take care of baby night moths. What do they feed on up to the time they make their cocoons. I have about a hundred eggs but do not know how to take care of them after they hatch.

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

11. How do bats multiply?

They are mammals, bringing forth live young. Two young are usually born, in early summer, and are cared for by the mother just as are other "warm-blooded" animal babies. The period of infancy is quite extended.

2. Is the night-jar the real name of this bird?

It is a nickname for the night-hawk, itself a nickname for Chordeiles virginianus, as it is not hawk-like at all in looks or habit. Probably got the latter from its habit of hunting on the wing for food-flying insects. The "jar" refers to the noise sometimes made when the bird plunges downward, the wings vibrating against the air. This sound is heard as a sort of "hoo-o-o!" in some sections and the bird locally called "bull bat."

3. Do trees have both staminate and pistillate flowers on the same tree?

This point varies with the kind of tree. All pines, oaks, and chestnuts, have both kinds of flowers, but the staminate flowers are on different sprays from those bearing pistillate flowers. Most trees have more staminate, or male, or pollen-producing blossoms than pistillate, or female, or seed-producing blossoms. Certain trees, as ash, poplar, and alanthus, have only one kind of flower on one tree, and the opposite kind on a tree of different sex. Tulip trees, basswood, and elm, have what are called "perfect flowers," that is, only one style of flower is borne, and it is capable of self-fertilization and seed forming.

EMPIRE STATE SCHOOL OF PRINTING SUCCEEDING.

By Telegram To The Freeman.

Ithaca, Oct. 28.—With 17 students already enrolled at the Empire State School of Printing and another class of 8 ready to enter on Monday, October 30, the school will reach the capacity and in some respects be slightly overcrowded, according to a statement made this morning by Director Ross W. Kellogg.

"The school is succeeding beyond the wildest dreams of its promoters," said Mr. Kellogg. "When it was decided last February to locate the school in Ithaca and to open it on May 1, it was expected that it would take a year to reach the school capacity of 24 students. This maximum enrollment has been reached in five months. The demand for instruction is so great that the school already has a waiting list of students to enter at the beginning of the next term on January 2."

President Frank E. Gannett, of the New York State Publishers' Association, which organized and is supporting the school, has called a meeting of the association at the Onondaga Hotel in Syracuse, Wednesday, November 15. On Saturday, November 4, the committee on education will meet in Ithaca to consider plans for the expansion of the school. The committee is composed of John W. Baker, of the Ithaca Journal-News, chairman, Frank K. Tripp, of the Elmira Star-Gazette, Ralph E. Bennett, of the Binghamton Sun, John F. Rolfe, of the Corning Leader, and William O. Dapping, of the Auburn Citizen.

LECTURES ON CURRENT PROBLEMS

At St. John's Parish House, Thursday Afternoon Under Auspices of Junior League—Dr. E. D. Fite, First Speaker.

In pre-war times a group of Kingston young ladies organized a club for charitable work in Kingston and called themselves the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club. The public knew these girls well for they conducted a day nursery, doing all necessary sewing themselves and often helping the city nurse by supplying needed garments. The club disbanded during the war for all its members were busy in some field of national service. This fall, again wishing to spend a useful winter, they enlarged their membership and incorporated themselves with the National Junior League and are now known as the Junior League of Kingston. This league, as all sister societies, adopted as its purpose, the plan to "know their own city."

Heretofore funds were raised by giving dances, The Dansants, Tab-leaux Vivants, etc., and this fall the league is planning a series of six lectures on present day problems. They have been fortunate in securing Dr. E. D. Fite, professor of political science at Vassar College, to present this course. These lectures are to be given in St. John's Parish House every Thursday afternoon, exclusive of Thanksgiving, from two-thirty to three-thirty, commencing Thursday afternoon, Nov. 8th. Dr. Fite's first lecture will be on "The European Situation." The title of each lecture will be announced weekly in The Freeman. Tickets for the course may be obtained from any member of the club or by phoning the league president, Mrs. C. A. Warren.

FERTILIZER OFFICE IN N. Y.

A New York office at 2 Rector street has been established by the Cooperative Grange League Federation Exchange, Inc., according to an announcement made today by H. E. Babcock, general manager of the corporation which has executive offices at Syracuse, New York. The New York office will be the headquarters of the fertilizer department, of which W. L. Gay is manager. The desire of the G. L. F. to improve its service and meet the increased demand made upon it by farmers of the state to assist them in their purchases of fertilizers and other farm supplies makes the connection in New York city very desirable, as it is in the heart of the fertilizer industry serving the northeastern sections of the United States.

Red Cross Christmas Seal fund, set aside specifically for aiding in tuberculosis work which the chapter originally undertook, it was voted that $10 be taken from this fund for the purchase of the 1923 tuberculosis Christmas seals.

Having appointed the following nominating committee, Judge Hasbrouck called upon Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck for a report of her attendance at the Second National Red Cross Convention, recently held in Washington, during the deliberations of the following committee: Frank Coykendall, R. M. Rownd, J. D. Schoonmaker, Mrs. Charles Tappan and Mrs. Thomas Hayes.

Mrs. Hasbrouck's report, which like its predecessors was received with thanks and ordered placed on file, was as follows:

I would like to tell you, as well as I am able, something about the wonderful Red Cross Convention, which I have recently had the very great privilege of attending. This was the Second National Convention of the American Red Cross, and was held in Washington, D. C., from October 9th to 11th, inclusive. Hundreds of delegates from all parts of the United States, were in attendance, also a large representation from the Pan-American countries, and many visitors.

Judge James Barton Payne, National Chairman, presided at the opening meeting of the convention, on Wednesday morning, October 9th, held in the beautiful Memorial Continental Hall, (the D. A. R. Building) Near East Relief, because of its immediate necessity, overshadowed all else during the first session. President Harding, who was to have welcomed the delegates to this meeting, was unable to be there. A letter from the President to Judge Payne was read, however, in which he expressed his gratification that action had been taken to meet the appalling emergency in the Near East; this letter was written by the President after he had been informed by Judge Payne, that the executive committee of the National Red Cross Organization, at a meeting held before the Convention opened, had authorized him to take such steps as he deemed necessary to carry out relief work in the Near East. In Judge Payne's words, the instructions of the Executive Committee are: "that the job be done, if it takes all the money we have, we will spend it, if it takes more, we will get it." Later, by a formal resolution, the delegates enthusiastically indorse this resolution, and pledged the support of the Chapters, in making it effective.

In his opening address, Chairman Payne, told of his recent visit to Europe. He said, "I have just returned as you know, from a visit to Europe, where I went to preside over the meeting of the Board of Governors of the League of the Red Cross Societies. It is proper for me to say, that the League of Red Cross Societies, was inspired by the American Red Cross under the leadership of Mr. Davison. It has been functioning throughout the world. It now constitutes a membership of forty-two National Red Cross Organizations representing Europe, South America, and the Orient, and is one of the things for which the Red Cross has reason to be chiefly proud. I also visited the Red Cross Societies in a few of the European countries, and I brought back the distinct impression that whatever people might think about the political conduct of the United States, there is one thing, as to which there is unanimity everywhere, the splendid work of the Red Cross."

In his letter to Judge Payne, President Harding, extended a very cordial invitation to the delegates to visit the Executive Offices in the White House, following the morning session, where he received them, and later posed for a picture, with the delegates, in the White House grounds.

The larger meetings of the convention were held in the Assembly Hall of the Memorial Continental Hall, which was beautifully decorated with flags and oak boughs; the smaller meetings and conferences, in the Red Cross building, which is situated next to it, and which was built as a memorial to the women of the Civil War. Among the distinguished speakers at the Convention, was Dr. Albert Voss Hill, in charge of Foreign Operations, who sailed during that week for Athens, to take charge of the American Red Cross Relief Work for the refugees of the Near East; he was accompanied by Rear Admiral McGowan, former Paymaster General of the Navy who will assist in the general management of the Relief Operations. Headquarters for the permanent Red Cross Relief Commission, will be established in Athens.

Chief Justice Taft, who presided at the closing general session, of the Convention, Wednesday evening, said, that he was very much impressed by the great numbers of people coming from such distances in these days of high railroad rates, and by the great enthusiasm evidenced in working for the further usefulness of the American Red Cross; he urged that the machine be kept ready for all emergencies.

Mr. James M. Beck, Solicitor General of the Department of Justice, and Counselor of the American Red Cross in his address to the delegates, declared that there never was a time in the history of the world, when there was such vital need of the spirit of the Red Cross, as at this hour. He said that during the war, the world was never so sane, "then, the thought of the world, was to see the things worth while, the absolute and eternal verities of life, and struggle for them. Today life has become so complex and stupendous in its development, that the mind cannot grasp the immensity of human suffering; events pass with such lightning rapidity that we lose our sense of values, and of things worth while. Man has slipped back into the old selfish existence, and there is need that this Red Cross of ours uphold the banner of altruism and the things of eternal and absolute value. General Pershing spoke of the work of the Red Cross during the war days. It seemed to be present everywhere, from the ports of entry to the very fighting line, he said: "It alleviated suffering, encouraged the fighting men, and left an impression upon the soldiers that they can never forget. The story is there in the minds of the men who served, especially the sick and wounded, who received tender care at the hands of the women of the Red Cross. What it has done is such an outstanding achievement, and of such high standard, that we who belong to the organization, have much to live up to."

Life saving methods were demonstrated by Commodore Longfellow, National Field Representative of the Corps. Several men from the Washington Police Department, showed methods of First Aid in street accidents; firemen demonstrated rescue of persons from burning buildings; Boy Scouts were adept in First Aid and Girl Scouts gave a lively picture of how to handle accident victims. A team of telephone linemen also showed methods employed in emergencies. Capt. Fred C. Mills of the Life Saving Section of Washington Division, assisted Commodore Longfellow, in demonstrating methods of instruction given in Life Saving Courses held in the Chapters over the Country, and an appeal was made to all Chapters situated on water fronts to have such a course given by their chapters, during the summer when so many accidents occur. Commodore Longfellow stated that many lives were lost every year because the methods of rescue were not more generally known. He stated that persons had been saved who had been in water for 20 minutes.

In a very stirring address which aroused the Red Cross workers to a high pitch of enthusiasm, Mrs. August Belmont, sent out through the delegates, a thrilling call to the women of America to get out their needles once again, and prepare clothing for the women and children driven from Asia Minor, by the onrush of the Turkish armies. Go back to your chapters, she said, and tell your women workers, that we need production to the limit; we have no idea of how big the proposition will be in Europe, but we know that it will be a big proposition, and that we must all stand by the Red Cross in its accomplishment. Mrs. Belmont said that she had a feeling of looking on her armor, and hoped that all the delegates would go to their chapters, with the same feeling and help them buckle on theirs. Don't forget though, she reminded, that while we carry out this program for Europe, to keep the home program here. Very often since I have been in the convention, she said, I have been asked in one way or another, what do you believe the Chapter should do in peace time? The carrying out to the fullest extent of our obligations to our ex-service men and women, the extension and development of Public Health Nursing, Junior Red Cross, First Aid and Life Saving, are the acknowledged activities of the Peace Time Program. Mrs. Belmont urged that the Red Cross be used to the limit, and that its members seize their opportunity to make the world a better place to live in. Mrs. Belmont's address brought to a close the general session of the Convention.

On Thursday morning I visited the Walter Reed Hospital, situated about three miles outside the city. From a capacity of 90 beds, the hospital has been enlarged during, and since the war, to care for 900 patients. Land was acquired, and many detached buildings erected for emergency. A beautiful swimming pool has been given for the ex-service men by a Washington woman. There is also a Red Cross building, containing a large assembly room where movies, and vaudeville are given several times a week. A stage erected in one end of the room contains two pianos and the Red Cross Field Director in charge told me that hundreds of convalescent men attended these performances. The house also contains writing rooms, and a library for the men. The shops, where the disabled men are receiving vocational training are a revelation. Many kinds of work are being taught, in one shop the men were working in metals, in another weaving rugs, also beautiful neck scarfs, furniture making, basket weaving were also taught. One man, who had a double amputation, having lost both legs, propelled himself about in a wheeled chair. He had been a miner before the war, and has since been taught to work in metals so proficiently, that he has just completed a silver service of hammered silver, very beautiful. Much of the workmanship shown in the different shops was remarkable, and the men seemed universally cheerful and contented.

It is impossible to describe the enthusiasm and interest shown during the Convention, which was thoroughly aroused from the very start by the "Call To Arms," for Near East Relief, there was a crowded attendance at every session. The very environment of the National Capitol seemed to stir one to action, and the daily association with so many earnest people actuated by a common purpose, with entire unselfishness, and in the spirit of the Great Red Cross, was a very inspiring experience.

While tentatively discussing the coming Roll Call, Judge Hasbrouck voiced the gratitude of the Red Cross to John D. Schoonmaker for his exceedingly efficient services during the last roll call which he successfully led the Red Cross in putting over.

The nominating committee then reported the following nominees for election as members of the executive committee of the Uster County Chapter of the American Red Cross and they were elected: Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Frank Coykendall, Mrs. T. J. Hickey, E. E. Ougheltree, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck, John D. Schoonmaker, Mrs. C. Gordon Reel, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, The Rev. Father Scully, Judge James Jenkins, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Dr. Mary Gay-Day, Mrs. Charles Tappan, Mrs. O. R. Saar, Napanoch, Martin Canline, Sangerties, Harcourt Pratt, Highland, Mrs. Frank LePevre, New Palitz, Sylvanus Van Aken, New Palitz, Mrs. M. B. Downer, Woodstock, Mrs. C. V. Hasbrouck, Rosendale, The Rev. D. M. Kaplan.

JUSTICE STALEY MADE FRIENDS

Justice Ellis J. Staley of Albany, who presided at the October trial term of the supreme court, which continued for three weeks at the court house in this city and closed Saturday at noon, by his fairness, his rulings, his geniality and in every way proved his fitness to occupy the bench, not only to the members of the bar but to litigants and to regular court attendants. About sixty cases were disposed of during the session, nearly twenty-five being tried, a number settled and others withdrawn or otherwise taken from the calendar. Before court took its final adjournment Justice Staley from the bench thanked the trial jurors for their attendance and careful attention to their work, thanked the members of the bar for their courteousness to the court, and also extended his thanks to the clerk of the court and to the court officers and other regular attendants for promptness and carefulness in their duties.

COLD DRINKS ON HOT DAYS

Belief That They Were Highly Dangerous Is Not as Generally Held as Formerly.

Medical men have their folklore, as have the people at large. Mistaken ideas, sanctioned by time, die hard, even among so-called men of science. In the differentiation of diseases and the sorting of causes and effects it is little wonder that there should have arisen confusion of ideas that to a degree still persists.

There is a general belief that it is highly dangerous to drink cold water in warm weather when we are very warm, and by a much recommended book on dietetics of the present century the warning against this practice is down in black and white. If we trace this teaching to its origin, we find that the fatalities that occurred from this practice always happened when the temperature of the air was 55 degrees or upward. The symptoms described are those of sunstroke or heat exhaustion, and the clinicians of the day had confused, or rather not yet differentiated, the effects of heat suppression and the very different experience of giving the interior of the stomach a cold bath.

So strong was the belief that the taking of a cold drink, and not the inability to get rid of heat, was the cause of those pathological catastrophes of hot weather that in one of our largest cities a century since the humane society placed printed posters on the public pumps, warning the hot and thirsty to pause before imbibing and hold the cup in the hands until some of the dangerous cold was extracted from the water. Very different from what a humane society might be doing in this day.—New York Medical Journal.

BASS ALWAYS A WANDERER

Fish Has No Special Abode, but Seeks Places Where Food Is the Most Plentiful.

The bass, both large and small-mouthed, is a wanderer. He is always looking for the place where the most food is, and is fond of variety. You can fish for him night or day, as he is a 24-hour feeder, but early morning and late afternoon are the surest times to get him right. He is an active rogue, and continually rising from the bottom to the surface, at times jumping above the water in pursuit of food. He changes his home and feeding ground as the season passes. In the spring he is found in shallow water in streams and rivers, below rapids and riffles, and as the water warms up he moves to deep pools sheltered by logs, weeds or ledges. During the summer, he migrates to greater depths, where the water is cool.

The same is true of the lake bass. In the spring he frequents the shallow places, but later he goes into the weeds and lily pads. The small-mouth bass favors stony bars or shoals varying in depth from 2 to 40 or 50 feet, while the large-mouth prefers weeds and mucky bottoms.

Fats From Mineral Oils.
Mineral oils are mixed gradually with filled soap, that is, soap in which the glycerine and lye have been left behind, or with curd soap at temperatures in excess of 180 degrees C. About 5 to 10 per cent of glycerine is also added. The product is a solid fat. The process is patented in Austrian patent No. 88000.—Scientific American.

Thought for the Day.
Some people work themselves into a frenzy over something they will never have to face.

It is the duty of the executive committee of the Red Cross Chapters to elect officers and transact the business of the Chapter, so an urgent call is extended to each of the above-mentioned persons to be at the Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday afternoon, October 31, at 2:30 o'clock. Besides electing officers it will be necessary for the committee to promptly arrange for the coming roll call and to secure a chairman for the same, so it is plain that the meeting will be one of exceptional importance.

Before adjourning, a telegram was sent to the Washington headquarters asking that one of their best Roll Call speakers be sent to Kingston to make a brief address at the closing session of the Big Exposition tonight.

TRAVELING HOME IS CONVENIENT

Charles and Helen Polley, playing on the vaudeville circuit, find it cheaper to travel in their own bungalow motorcar than to pay high prices for railroad travel and hotel accommodations. The Polleys have traveled all over the country in their car, a marvel of convenience, while their son David, known as the "Auto-Bungalow Baby" has never known any other home.

MATERIAL HINTS IN BUYING AUTO

Ten Important Points Should Be Given Full Consideration Before Making Purchase.

ECONOMY IS MOST ESSENTIAL

Power to Go Anywhere at Any Time Is Desirable as Well as Safety and Convenience—Comfort Must Not Be Overlooked.

A most important investment is the purchase of a motorcar. If the prospective buyer is to get the most out of his investment it is necessary that he be grounded in the essentials of motorcar knowledge beforehand.

Ten Big Points.

There are ten important points that the purchaser should consider carefully before making his selection. They are: (1) economy, (2) power and flexibility, (3) durability, (4) comfort, (5) safety, (6) convenience, (7) easy riding, (8) beauty, (9) style.

It would be a safe plan if these points were studied in the order named.

Economy heads the list because it is the important question of the times. Buy a car having an economical record, one which will give you a maximum amount of mileage for each gallon of gas. This is governed by the type of motor, the bearings, lubrication and weight.

Power is the next important essential to be considered. You do not want to be bounded by any limitations in this respect. You desire to be able to go anywhere and at any time, and for this reason you want power in your automobile.

An asset which we all seek in buying a motorcar is durability. When one considers the amount involved in the investment this is very important. This feature of a car depends upon the character of its maker; his honesty, his wise ideas, his standards, his long experience and his successes in the automotive industry. His car is usually as durable as his record.

Make Motoring Enjoyable.

Convenience and comfort must not be passed by lightly. Purchase a car which affords these little conveniences which make motoring really enjoyable and free from care.

Follow these rules of selection and the car you eventually purchase will be just a real good one for your purpose.

PROPER MANAGEMENT OF CAR

Running Expenses May Be Reduced by Making Stops Gradually—Also Start Slowly.

When making a stop, close the throttle and withdraw the clutch at a distance from the stop, allowing the momentum to carry the car forward until a very slight pressure on the brake brings it to a standstill. Constantly practiced, this little saving will subtract a nice margin from the running expenses. In accelerating, do so gradually, as the engine then uses the entire quantity of fuel fed it, whereas in quick acceleration it gets more than it can employ for the moment—Waste.

PROPER CARE OF REAR AXLE

Lubrication and Correct Adjustment Are Most Important—Avoid Excessive Use of Oil

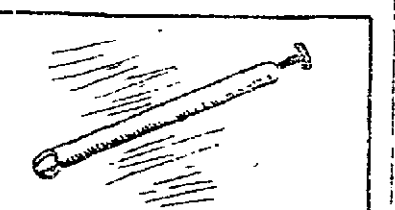

The two most important items in the care of the rear axle unit are proper lubricating and correct adjustment. The unit includes the differential, axle shafts and their housing. The gears comprising the differential must turn continuously in oil, usually a very heavy kind, but too much oil should not be used as the excess may work along the axle shafts to the brakes and cause slipping.

WHY BATTERY BECOMES WEAK

Drop in Voltage Occurs When Plates Have Absorbed Solution, Retarding Acid.

The drop in voltage or the discharged condition of a storage battery occurs when plates within the battery have absorbed the acid in the battery solution. When a battery is discharging this acid goes into the plates and forms a compound of acid and lead, called lead sulphate. It is when this sulphate fills up the pores of the plates, retarding the acid in its circulation into the plate, that the battery becomes weak.

Finger Extension

Where the fingers cannot reach, a tool with jaw clamps will. This is a pointed instrument with a rod running through it holding the jaws at one end. At the other end a spring is compressed, which forces out the jaws. When the jaws are placed over the inaccessible nut or bolt the spring is released and the jaws take a firm hold.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Avoid over-lubrication.

Never race the engine.

Commonest cause of overheating is lack of water.

In London there are 101,767 licensed motor drivers.

Tighten battery terminal nuts often, so as to maintain contact.

A hairpin will do the work of a cotter pin when the emergency arises.

Follow advice of manufacturer regarding grades of oil for lubrication.

Lamps should have bulbs of equal candle power, have clean reflectors and be properly focused.

Test the steering gear to see that it does not bind at any point and is thoroughly lubricated.

LINKING UP STATE SYSTEMS

Progressive Step Attributed to Requirements of Federal-Aid Legislation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

A recent meeting of New England state highway officials, and engineers of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, marks an important point in the development of highways in this country. This is the first meeting ever held between officials empowered to act, for the purpose of laying out a system of highways to serve an area larger than a single state. It is the first of a series of similar meetings which will be held between the federal officials and highway authorities of various groups of states, the object of which will be the solution of the problem for the whole country.

This progressive step, long wished for by all users of the highways, can be attributed to the requirements of federal-aid legislation. It is required that all federal aid be spent on a connected system of highways designed to serve the needs of the whole country. Tentative systems have been submitted by all except eight states, and now the series of meetings is being held to connect and co-ordinate the proposed state systems.

The bureau of public roads intends to push this work as rapidly as possible, so as to lay before the people the plans for what will be by far the greatest highway system in the world. At present only roads certain to be on the system are being approved for construction with federal aid; in May more than twenty miles of completed road was added to the system on each working day. It is estimated that the system will comprise 180,000 miles of highway.

LARGE STATE ROAD PROGRAM

South Carolina Wants to Spend $34,000,000 on Improvements in Next Six Years.

A proposal to spend $34,000,000 within six years and to complete within that time 4,000 miles of the state system, more than 600 miles of which would be hard surfaced and the remainder surfaced with sand-clay, top soil, or gravel is to be urged upon the legislature of South Carolina. In order that this proposal should conform to the federal aid acts the state highway officials recently held conferences with representatives of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

If this greatly expanded program is carried out, the state will match all of the federal aid money now available and any future appropriation that may become available. Funds will be raised by automobile licenses, by continuing the state-wide two-mill property tax, a one-cent-per-gallon motor fuel tax, plus a bond issue of $10,000,000.

HIGHWAY RULES ARE STRICT

Vehicles Not Permitted to Carry More Than Fourteen Tons Without Special Permit.

In Massachusetts no vehicle may travel over the highway which, with its load, weighs more than fourteen tons without a special permit and the load must not exceed 800 pounds upon the inch of the vehicle. No motor vehicle which, with its load, weighs more than four tons, is allowed to travel at a speed of over four miles per hour if equipped with metallic tires, or over twelve miles per hour if equipped with tires of rubber or similar substances. The outside width of a vehicle is limited to eight feet.

Good Roads in Georgia.

The state of Georgia spent nearly $25,000,000 on good road construction last year, leading all states in the southeast. Almost $10,000,000 represented federal aid.

Cost of Our Highways.

The average cost per mile of highways constructed in the United States is $17,120.

Good Surfacing Material.

Tars and tar products are fast replacing mineral oil for surfacing roads.

ONE CENT A WORD

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

The foremost problem before the world today concerns methods of effecting world stabilization. It is a fundamental truth that billions of dollars in capital cannot be wiped out and millions of lives sacrificed without incurring a debt that all humanity must share. And since all humanity must share in this burden, as events since the end of the war have proved, it follows quite naturally that all humanity must share in the restitution of these destroyed values.

What is needed is greater practices of thrift throughout the world, and no plan of rehabilitation will be successful that is not based on these practices by the people.

Wherever evidences of returning stability and industrial activity are manifested, it is found that these conditions had their inception in the will of the people to work and save. What is needed, therefore, more than anything else is a great world-wide revival of the thrift spirit. In our personal lives there are no short-cuts by which we can build ourselves up excepting through the orderly processes of working and saving. And exactly the same rule holds good with nations.

Not enough is being said about thrift throughout the world. Not enough of it is taught in the schoolroom. Not enough is preached from the pulpit and through the press.

More intensive practices of thrift would form a background that would prove of incalculable value in bringing to a successful culmination any plans for world-wide stabilization that may be worked out.

If each individual who reads these lines, will take these thoughts home to himself and do what he can to lend impetus to thrift, a splendid start will have been made toward the restoration of world-wide prosperity and good-will.

THE OFFICE CAT

A mule cannot pull while he is kicking, and he cannot kick while he is pulling. Neither can you.

Some day the Gideons, who see to it that there's a Bible in each hotel guest room, are going to fix it so that the man who makes the hotel rates has one, too.

"Well, you must remember that my hair is somewhat older than my beard."

Bobby.—No, sir; I hit every one of them!

Everybody Works.

Mother's in the kitchen. Washing out the bottles. Sister's in the pantry. Taking off the labels. Father's in the cellar. Moving up the hops. Johnny's on the front porch. Watching for the cops.

Kids and canoes are similar in one respect at least. Both should be paddled.

The County Fair.

"Did you win anything at the Kick County Fair?"

"First prize for blooded tractors."

Northcliffe Superstitions.

Lord Northcliffe had his superstitions. He was inordinately afraid of the bad luck frequently associated with 13 persons at a table. At a luncheon in his home in London last summer, 13 men sat down, including some Americans. Suddenly Lord Northcliffe exclaimed in a horrified voice: "There are 13 at this table. Every one get up. We must wait until my secretary comes to make 14." Subsequently Lord Northcliffe gravely related to one of his guests, an American newspaper man, many tragedies which he said were the result of the seating of 13 persons at table.

Past and Present.

A New York city official, as the story is going the rounds, was walking through City Hall park with one of his commissioners. As they passed the statue of Nathan Hale, who stands with his hands behind his back, the commissioner said:

"Mr. Official, don't you think that statue of Nathan Hale is a beautiful piece of work?"

"Hale? Nathan Hale?" said the official in a puzzled tone. "Why, I thought that was a statue of Howdini!"—Argus.

Road Building in France.

In France, because of the increased strain on the highways caused by a larger use of motor traction, the French minister of public works has outlined a program of road building on a large scale.

Children Can Attend School.

It is the condition of the highway which determines whether our children shall go to school every day during the school year or whether they shall have to stay at home to bother their mothers part of the time.

FEW BAREFOOT BOYS SEEN

Writer Recalling Joys of the Past Has Only Pity for the Modern Youth.

Is the barefoot boy a vanishing institution in our cities? A traveling salesman sends this letter to the Flaverville (Mass.) Gazette:

"I make hundreds of towns and cities, seeking my goods, and it strikes me that each year I see fewer and fewer barefoot boys. Of course there still are many, paddling about without shoes, particularly in the smaller towns. But I am wondering if the time is far off when the barefoot boy will be a curiosity in the big cities. You can't travel miles now without seeing a pair of white shoes on a boy's feet in a matter of minutes. When I was a boy a youngster wearing shoes and stockings in summer was so scarce that people when they saw one would wonder what was wrong with him."

Many of the rest of us have noticed the gradual passing of the barefoot boy. City pavements are too hot for the unprotected foot. It is a big loss for the youth. How few a boy is known only to the grownup who in memory has the delightful recollection of bare feet padding through thick August dust of a country road or wiggling deliciously in mud puddles and ruts after a rain. "Then were the days."

Another institution of which youth is being robbed in the cities is the alley.

Real estate is too valuable to waste on alleys. Blocks are being laid out smaller. The short garage drive from the curb has taken the place of the alley.

Oh, grievous loss! What would boyhood have been like years ago, without the alleys through which we explored gathering scrap iron and bones in a dirty old hurlap bag for the junkman? High board fences were along those alleys, to keep rowdy pirates out of orchards at the back of yards large enough to play a ball game in.

The alleys are passing. So are the tall back fences. So are the huge back yards. A garage and a strip of half-dead grass the size of a living-room rug are all that separate the typical modern city house from the neighbor on the street in the rear. Youth on the pavements, dodging the auto maniacs who curse them and "wonder why" parents don't keep their brats off the streets."

We grownups talk a lot about the discomforts of metropolitan congestion. But it is youth that is footing the lion's share of the bill. Another fifty years of "progress" and there will not be any such thing as boyhood in the cities. Babies will be handed radio outfits and other pacifiers when they begin wondering what's beyond the walls of the house. We're fortunate now, to be getting old.

Wood Tar Oil Uses.

The oils that are obtained from the distillation of wood tar can be used as substitutes in the place of various vegetable and mineral oils in much the same manner as the oils obtained from the distillation of coal tar and lignite tar. However, in order to make the wood tar oils available for use in this manner it is necessary to treat them chemically so as to decalcify them and destroy their tendency to oxidize easily. Two processes for accomplishing this are described in Selfe, 1922, page 683. In both processes the oil fraction, recovered at 250 degrees C. is treated with caustic lime and air is blown through it at the same time until the oil will no longer absorb oxygen from the air. The water is then removed and the oil is distilled, yielding a product which is entirely free from acidity and which will no longer oxidize in the air. It is accordingly available for use as a lubricant.—Scientific American.

WORSHIPED THE GOLDEN ORB

Ancient People of Peru Made the Sun an Object of Particular Veneration.

The most complete system of sun worship was practiced by the ancient tribe of Incas of Peru, South America. Its existence was first discovered by the Spaniards who visited Peru in 1524. The Incas, chief of the Peruvian ruling house, claimed to be children of the sun and the sun's representatives on earth.

The government was a despotic one, of which the Inca was both high priest and king.

In Cuzco, the capital stood the wonderful temple of the sun, in which all the implements were of solid gold. On the west end of the interior was a representation of the sun's disk and rays in the same precious metal, so placed that the rising sun, shining in at the open east end, fell full upon the image, and was reflected with dazzling splendor. In the plaza, or square of the temple, a great annual festival was held during the summer solstice. Huge multitudes assembled from all parts of the empire, and presided over by the Inca, awaited in breathless solemnity the first rays of their deity to strike the golden image in the temple, when they immediately prostrated themselves in adoration.

Sacrifices, similar to those of the Jews, were offered on the occasion, and bread and wine were partaken of in a manner strikingly resembling the Christian sacrament.

The moon was the spouse of the sun, the planet Venus was his page. "The Pleiades, and the remarkable constellation of the Southern Cross were also worshiped as servants of the sun. Fire, air and earth were adored, but in a lesser degree. The lightning and the rainbow were also worshiped as servants of the sun, in fact all nature was embraced in the wonderful religion of the early and now extinct Incas. Their wealth and glory is departed and they live only in history and in the wonderful carved memorials they left behind for modern savants to study.

Chicago Gets Prehistoric Monster.

Eight million years ago a dinosaur crawled into a depression in a torrid, equatorial belt in Alberta, Can., and died.

For eight million years his grave was unmolested. His kind became extinct, glaciers swept down, mountains formed over his resting place.

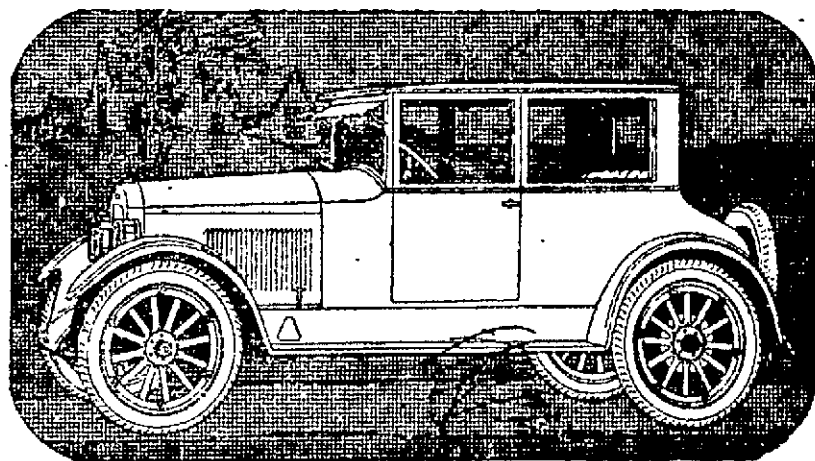

When the old dinosaur—50 feet long and 30 tons in weight—died the equator was due north of Chicago and the Mississippi waterway was an actuality, with the Gulf of Mexico stretching to the North pole, scientists say.

Recently, however, the elements had so worn down the mountain near Red Deer river, 125 miles west of Calgary, that the last layer of soil was swept away and the dinosaur bones were bared.

Prof. E. S. Riggs, associate curator of geology for the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, with five companions, stumbled across the huge bones. Now they'll go to the Field museum to be started at by city folks.

Expensive Appetite. Following a recent raid near Jeffersonville, at which a 25-gallon still was seized and brought into court, the alleged owner faced trial in the Jeffersonville city court. Several gallons of whisky had been seized at the same time. The defendant asserted that he was making the liquor for his own consumption. Asked how much he required, he replied: "Two gallons a week." The chief of police made a hasty calculation. "That would be 10 drinks a day," he whispered to the prosecuting attorney, "and big ones at that." Apart from regarding this an expensive luxury in these days, court attaches believed, that the man who attempted the feat would be in the hospital about the third day and in the grave at the end of the week.—Indianapolis News.

SCHOOL DANCES CLOSE AT ELEVEN

Board of Education Continues Same Rule Regarding Senior Dances—Routine Business Transacted at Regular Meeting.

Routine matters were considered by the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Friday evening, the only other matter coming up for serious consideration being the question of the Senior dances, the closing hour for which in some cases appear to have been misunderstood.

During the past six years the Senior dances at the high school have closed invariably at eleven o'clock. Various teachers from time to time have acted as chaperons, and members of the board of education also have acted in that capacity. Permission was granted to hold the first Senior dance in the high school on Saturday evening, November 4, and for the purpose of seeing that the rules laid down by the board are complied with, Trustee Herbert and Van Wagonen were appointed to be present. The dance is not open to the general public, but is to be given for the seniors and their invited guests. The request for permission to use the high school was received from Miss Catherine McCommon, secretary of the Senior Class of the high school, and a motion by Mrs. Thompson to grant the request was amended by Trustee Van Wagonen and adopted.

Burning Buckwheat Coal. Superintendent Michael reported that two tons of buckwheat coal which had been sent to School No. 5 as an experiment had proved so satisfactory that more of the same size had been placed there and also had been supplied to other schools for use during the mild weather. Egg coal being particularly hard to obtain. Buckwheat coal is burned at a saving of $1.35 a ton, and he felt confident that at least twenty-five tons of buckwheat would be used before cold weather set in.

New Boiler Satisfactory.

Trustee Van Wagonen, chairman of the building committee, reported that the new boiler installed at School No. 2 was first class in every respect. The committee had found that as a matter of fire protection a ceiling should be placed in the boiler room of that school, and had arranged for a metal ceiling there.

More Sewing Machines Needed.

Superintendent Michael reported that five additional sewing machines were needed in the part-time school and that they could also be used elsewhere at any time. The Singer Sewing Machine Company, offered to supply the long-shuttle machines at $35.25 each, and the round-body machines at $37.44 each. On motion of Trustee Gill, Superintendent Michael was authorized to purchase them.

Opportunity School Doing Well.

Mrs. Thompson of the visiting committee reported she had visited four schools, including the opportunity school at School No. 2, where she found fifteen pupils all doing well.

For such pupils the school was furnishing hot chocolate and hot soup on alternate days in connection with the cold lunch they furnished themselves, and observation led her to believe that by helping to build up the physical condition of some of the pupils their mental condition also was being built up.

Audit Pay Roll and Bills.

The finance committee reported the October pay roll, amounting to $20,099.75, and audited vouchers amounting to $6,530.71, which were approved and ordered paid. The finance committee, through its chairman, Trustee Van Wagonen, also offered a resolution that the committee hereafter be empowered to audit the monthly bills of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company when presented, and the president and clerk be authorized to draw a warrant for the same, in order that the board may receive the advantage of the discount for payment within the time specified by the company. The resolution was adopted.

November Visiting Committee.

President Fleming appointed Trustees Gill, Betz and Flemming as members of the visiting committee for November.

Those present were President Fleming, Trustees Leeres, Betz, Gill, Herbert, Thompson and Van Wagonen. The absentees were Trustees Brimmer and Kearney.

Moth-Proof Wool.

A moth-repellant has been introduced in the German market, which, it is claimed, will positively make the wool fabric absolutely moth-proof. An additional advantage of this product, known as Eulan F, is that it does not discolor the fabric, so that the wool can be dyed in bright shades without any difficulty. The product is a white powder which does not dissolve very easily in water. Acid must be added to make it dissolve. In this condition it is used in the textile mill, and it is preferable to put the woolen fabric through the moth-proofing treatment in the factory. Another form of the product is sold for use in the household. In this form the powder will dissolve very easily in water. The woolen fabric is then soaked in the solution and permitted to dry. Only a 1 per cent solution is required. Eulan F is now on the market in Germany.—From the Industrial Digest.

PUSSY'S SPARKS LIGHTED FIRES

Roadboy's Black Cat, General, Proves a Handy Animal to Have Around the Mountain Shack—Another Tale of the Gallupers' Hunting Expedition.

"It's a darn handy matter to have General around these brisk mornings," remarked Blink Biven to himself as he stuck his head out of his bunk and watched Ralph Roadboy's big black cat start a fire in the fireplace in the hunting shack in the mountains.

"You said it," agreed his brother, Zink, who had been awakened by the sound of Blink's voice.

And it was an interesting sight to watch General at work at his regular morning job. Every evening before retiring for the night Roadboy or the other Gallupers would see to it that several big logs were placed in the fireplace and plenty of shavings scattered under them so that it would be easy to apply a match and start a fire early the next morning.

As nearly every one knows, there is considerable electricity in a cat's fur, and if you stroke the back of a cat long enough you will feel the prick of a small electric shock. It is also understood that the coat of a black cat throws off more electric energy than the coat of another cat.

Some months past General when stroking his own coat had found that if he stroked the fur long enough small electric sparks would leap into the air, and many a long day when the cat had nothing else on its mind it would amuse itself playing with the sparks. That had given Roadboy an idea and he had trained General to stand in front of the fireplace and stroke itself.

As a result every morning General would pose in front of the fireplace and soon the sparks that flew from its coat as it stroked itself would fly into the shavings and set them on fire. With General around the house the match supply was not in need of constant replenishing, as but few matches were needed.

Unfortunately for General one afternoon while on a hunting expedition after field mice the cat absent-mindedly tripped over a hornet's nest, and was forced to flee, badly stung about the body. The stings inflicted by the hornets proved so irritating to General that he began to scratch his back with such force and energy that the electric sparks fairly flew and before General knew it his fur had caught fire and the animal burned to death before the Gallupers could save it.

CANVASSERS MEET EARLY THIS TIME

New Law Requires Them to Start Tabulating Vote Thursday Following Election—Result Should be Known by Nov. 21.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Oct. 26.—This year, for the first time in the state's history, the official count on the November election will be known probably within two weeks after election. It was announced today at the office of Secretary of State John J. Lyons. In past years the official count has not been known until the middle of December, and many times not until the latter part of December.

A change made in the state election law by the last legislature will make this possible. Under the old law the boards of canvassers in the various counties could not meet to start counting the ballots until a week from election day. Under the revised election law these boards will meet on the Thursday following election, and at once will start tabulating the vote.

The secretary of state's office has just sent a letter to the boards of canvassers in all counties in the state, calling attention to the change in the election law, urging that the votes be counted as speedily as possible.

"There is no reason why we should not have an official count on the election with two weeks, and not later than December 1, because of the change in the election law," said an official at the secretary of state's office today.

"There never was any good reason why the boards of canvassers in the counties should wait a week after election before starting to count the votes. If the men who count the ballots get right down to work we ought to know the official result possibly within two weeks. On more than one occasion in years past we have not known the official result until the latter part of December. We hope the boards will meet promptly on the first Thursday following election, and do the work as speedily as possible."

The following two amendments will be voted upon at the general election on November 7:

"Shall the proposed amendment to section two of article four of the Constitution, in relation to city bills, requiring the mayors of cities to return special bills to the clerk of the House from which they were sent and if the Legislature is not in session, that the clerk (and not the mayor) shall immediately transmit such bills to the governor, be approved?"

"Shall the proposed amendment to section seven of article six of the Constitution, increasing the compensation of judges of the Court of Appeals and justices of the Supreme Court while serving as judges of the Court of Appeals from $10,000 a year now allowed by the Legislature to $17,500 a year to be fixed by the Constitution, be approved?"

Town Built Over Salt Mine.

The European locality boasting the lowest mortality record is the town of Kelberg in Galicia, which is built over a mine of rock salt. The inhabitants live in houses made of salt, walk salt paved streets, and worship in a church constructed entirely of salt, where one may behold a salt statue. Kelberg is not an ancient city, being scarcely more than 50 years old. The civic records are old enough, however, to bear evidence to the high degree of public health in the community. Although there have been epidemics of contagious diseases in the immediate neighborhood, the town itself has always escaped these maladies.

Life Seen as a Dream.

"And surely it is not a melancholy conceit to think we are all asleep in this world, and that the conceits of this life are as mere dreams to those of the next, as the phantasms of the night to the conceits of the day. There is an equal delusion in both, and the one doth but seem to be the emblem or picture of the other. We are somewhat more than ourselves in our sleeps, and the slumber of the body seems to be but the waking of the soul. It is the litigation of sense, but the liberty of reason; and our waking conceptions do not match the fancies of our sleeps."—Sir Thomas Browne.

Tide Rises Thirty Feet.

In the Kimberly district of West Australia there is only one tide a day but it has a range of over thirty feet. The ships tie up to the wharf at high tide, and when the tide is out they are left high and dry on the mud. This contrasts very strongly with the south coast, where the tide has a range of only a few feet. This great range of tide is not caused by the water piling up in a bay, for the ports of the northwest are situated right on the open coast.

Character of Becky Sharpe.

Becky Sharpe was the chief character in Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." She was distinguished by her intriguing disposition, her selfishness, good humor, energy and cleverness, and utter want of heart and moral principle. At the close of the long story she is left alone, practically penniless, but she has not changed her methods of forever seeking an assured position in the world, and the reader feels that she will find no difficulty in snaring another dupe.

VAN WAGENEN HAS ENVIABLE RECORD

Ulster Assemblyman Has Led Busy Life; Accomplishing Many Things—His Re-election Assured Continued Republican Ideals.

A record of legislative accomplishment during the three years he has served Ulster county in the assembly has shown to the people of the county that Assemblyman Simon B. Van Wagenen measures fully up to all that was anticipated he would be, and in continuing him at Albany next year they will be helping Governor

SIMON B. VAN WAGENEN.

Miller to maintain the splendid record of which the Republican party has every reason to be proud.

The same energy which Assemblyman Van Wagenen has displayed in legislative matters, of which the completion of the Rondout-Creek Bridge is only one example, has characterized him throughout his life. He was born September 2, 1864, on the farm in the town of Esopus now owned by George E. House, and attended school at the section known as The Hook up to the age of thirteen years, when he began working for his father and neighbors, doing such work until he was sixteen years old. Between the ages of thirteen and twenty, his only opportunity for schooling was for six or eight weeks during the winter months, but he made the most of his opportunities and the knowledge he acquired, together with the ability to make practical use of it, in reality gave him a most liberal education.

His fondness for work was emphasized at an early age. From the age of sixteen until he was twenty years old he was engaged in various occupations, in the spring time fishing for shad in the Hudson river, during the summer months and winter working in nearby ice houses; and in 1885 he opened a grocery store at Ulster Park with Herbert Slater, under the name of Slater & Van Wagenen. Two years later he sold out his interest and began working on the famous old steamer "Oswego," which he continued until 1888. In the following April he began working for Brigham Brothers at Creek Locks, remaining there until September 15, 1890, when he entered the employ of R. & C. I. LeFever at Rosendale, where he remained for one year and then returned to Ulster Park to take up farm work.

Mr. Van Wagenen's experience in these various occupations resulted in his amassing a wealth of experience and business acumen which have proved of inestimable value in his subsequent legislative career, rebounding to his own credit and the benefit and satisfaction of his constituents.

In 1892 Mr. Van Wagenen engaged in the fruit package and fertilizer business, and gradually he branched out in the wholesale fruit and produce business, which he continued until 1902 when he engaged in road construction on his own account. By strict adherence to business principles and square dealing with everyone, seeking always to give a dollar of value for every dollar received Mr. Van Wagenen built roads which became famous, and achieved through out the state an enviable reputation as a contractor and road builder.

His years of experience in road building were to become of the most value to the people of Ulster county and of the entire state when the time came to complete the approach to the Rondout Creek Bridge. The most difficult and unsuspected engineering problems were encountered in completing the approach from the Esopus side. Mr. Van Wagenen worked on with indefatigable energy in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties, with the result that the road was completed and open to through traffic in advance of the time expected.

Three years, from 1893 to 1895, inclusive, Mr. Van Wagenen served as town clerk of the town of Esopus, and for the following three years he was connected with the Ulster county clerk's office where he rendered valuable service. He was elected supervisor of Esopus in 1901 and continued in that office for four years.

Experience, training and temperament made Mr. Van Wagenen a public official whose value to his constituents has increased from year to year, and his re-election will mean continuance of the high standards of Republicanism in the county and state.

OLD RED SCHOOLHOUSE GONE

In Its Place Now Comes the Modern, Steam-Heated Building and Many Teachers.

The little red schoolhouse is passing. In its place is springing up a pretentious handsome affair of stone, brick or stucco, with two or more rooms, with modern equipment, a library, and an advanced curriculum for the education of boys and girls of the farming districts.

There are still, of course, many of the old one-room school houses, of frame construction, shabby and forsaken-looking standing in the country, but the consolidated school plan, and the rapid settling of farm lands in this section particularly, has marked the doom of the old-time institution.

No more does a sheep-tail, split and fastened, wool out, on a block of wood serve as an eraser for bumpy blackboards in these schools; no more do a tattered dictionary and a few outdated text books constitute the "library."

Standard school equipment, coming up to regulations set by the state, is to be found in practically all of the rural schools in any but remote districts today.

A marked contrast can be seen between representative schools of today in the country and those of a generation ago.

Then the boys carried stove-wood from the outdoors and corded it along the walls of the room, to feed the box stove in winter; today a hot-air or steam furnace, fueled with coal, provides heat in the modern district school.

Then a tin wash-basin in a corner, provided a place to wash at noon, or to thaw out frost-bitten fingers; today a pressure water system or artesian well empties into a modern lavatory.

Then there was one teacher for all grades from primary to eighth. Today schools are graded, with separate rooms and individual teachers in many county districts.

Then the subjects offered were reading, writing and arithmetic, with a few added such as geography and some history. Now the boy or girl may study agriculture, domestic science, manual training and other supplementary courses.

Truly, times have changed for the farm schoolboy since the end of the last century.

Beautiful St. Helena.

Napoleon Bonaparte drew public attention to a hitherto little-known island in mid-Atlantic, almost opposite the southern extremity of the Portuguese settlement of Angola, next door to what used to be German Southwest Africa. Few of the general public of that day knew of Elba, not far from Leghorn, where the French emperor was first sequestered; and when, after Waterloo, he went to St. Helena people looked in vain upon most of the maps for that tropical dot, with an area of only 47 square miles and with but few inhabitants.

After the Boer war the English turned to St. Helena as a safe spot to send Boer prisoners of war, and so many thousands were transported there that the inhabitants of Jamestown—the only town then on the island—became suddenly enriched, for British soldiers and sailors brought money, and their prisoners were rarely poor men.

Next to the Red sea ports along the African coast, St. Helena probably entertains in its waters the greatest aggregation of sharks in the world, but the Boer prisoners discovered that these sharks always slept when the sun reached the meridian; and many of these prisoners were rescued by their friends, who brought small vessels, apparently laden with provender, but steamed rapidly away when their confederates had swum a few yards from beneath the towering cliffs to the awaiting boat.

Standard Time Zones.

The United States standard eastern time zone is from the Atlantic ocean to a line through Sandusky and Mansfield, and between Columbus and Zanesville, O.; thence through Huntington, W. Va.; Norton, Va.; Johnson City, Tenn.; Asheville, N. C.; Atlanta and Macon, Ga., and Apalachicola, Fla.

Standard central zone is from this first line to a line through Mandan, N. D.; Pierre, S. D.; McCook, Neb.; Dodge City, Kan., and along the western boundary of Oklahoma and Texas.

Standard mountain zone is from the second line to a line that forms the western boundary of Montana, and thence passes through Pocatello, Idaho; Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah; Parker and Tuma, Ariz.

Pricking the Bubble.

"Deacon Summers seems to have lost considerable prestige in your church circles since he permitted himself to be drawn into that rough-and-tumble bar-room fight the other night," observed an Eastern visitor to Arkansas.

"I sh'd say he has," replied a native disgustedly. "Th' hull congregation figured him a right sight handier with a razor than what he turned out to be."—American Legion Weekly.

Limit to His Appetite.

Rebbs had dinner with his uncle one evening, who gave him a generous helping of everything.

At the close of the meal he was asked why he had not eaten his dessert, whereupon he replied: "Oh, I can't, 'cause my appetite don't hold much tonight."

Bright Eyes.

There were many attractive stores and large amount of visitors as the result of their choice.

More interest was shown in the dancing contest Friday evening and the following couples were selected: Charles Elmendorf and partner and Harold Short and partner. These couples are in addition to those named in The Freeman Friday evening and they will compete in the finals this evening. LEACOCK HAD OTHER PLANS

Distinct Reason Why in Death He Could Not Lie Beside Lord Strathcona.

G. B. Burghin, in his recently published "Memoirs," relates the following anecdote: A short time ago Sir John Leacock was the guest of a literary club to which I belong, and when I was called on to speak I explained how that morning I had been walking in Highgate cemetery and passed by the tomb of Lord Strathcona. One of the cemetery custodians joined me, and said, regretfully, "Lord Strathcona's the only distinguished Canadian we have here." Then he brightened up a little, "But there's a vacant lot beside his lordship's. Whereupon I explained to him quite easily enough that I was going to meet another distinguished Canadian that evening, and would try to induce him to make the necessary arrangements for occupying the vacant space by Lord Strathcona. Leacock listened to this with strained attention. On rising to reply, he disregarded the points made by the other speakers, and said: "Whilst I am deeply grateful to Mr. Burghin for his thoughtful arrangements regarding my obsequies, I regret to inform him that they will have to be canceled, as I have already decided to be buried in Westminster abbey."

DEBATES START AT HIGH SCHOOL

First Trial Results in Victory for Negative on Proposal to Ban Strikes by Law—Musicians and Football Noise Makers Get Busy.

On Wednesday of this week, the Webster-Haynes Debating Society held the first of its trial debates at the high school. The subject under discussion was, "Resolved, That strikes in industries essential to the life of the people should be prohibited by law." The affirmative was upheld by Faranacci Corregan, leader, Philip Fleischer, and Gordon Barnes, and the negative by Westbrook Stelle, leader, J. Pennington and John Boyle. Miss Hussey, Dr. Boerker and Mr. Brown acted as judges. The decision was two to one in favor of the negative. Each speaker showed up well, but Corregan and Pennington were the shining lights of the debate. Corregan's form of argument is especially commendable. Pennington has an excellent, straightforward delivery, his fiery oratory attracting and holding the attention of all present. Barnes also showed up very well, and Fleischer, Stelle and Boyle did their part toward upholding their respective points. The only adverse criticism is that nearly the whole of the negative's rebuttal was what is termed "constructive argument" in the league rules. Except for this the debate was very good all through.

Last year the Music Association secured the services of Mr. Dodge for assembly twice a week. They also held the operetta "Yanki San." According to the committee of advisors and those working for the association, they are going to do even more this year. So on Wednesday they launched their drive for memberships. The results of the drive will be published when it is completed.

At a meeting of the Senior class it was decided to hold their first dance of the season next Saturday evening.

Thursday morning four seniors made their appearance on the rostrum. The program for the morning was on music, all the numbers relating to it. The first number was a selection on "What Music Can Do For You," taken from the book by Harriet A. Seymour, given by Gertrude Walsh. The second an outline of the life of Madame Schumann-Haek by Elizabeth Leffig. Agatha Flick was the next speaker and spoke on Icelandic, American and Irish folk songs. Dorothy Huhne told the tradition of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata." All the pieces were very interesting and were delivered in a very fine manner.

Friday morning the students had a real treat, when Mr. Dodge appeared in assembly in company with C. Baldwin Allen. Mr. Allen is soloist in the Madison Avenue Baptist Church in New York city, and he has gained the admiration of many Kingstonians who heard him sing at the Kingston Exposition. Mr. Allen sang live songs for the students. The first was "On the Road to Mandalay." The second was a Scotch folksong, "Captain Mac." The third number, a humorous song about a boater skipper who was the idol of the ladies. The fourth number was an encore. With this Mr. Allen would have stopped, but the applause continued until he consented to sing another song. This last number was "The Melody of Home," which held the assembly in almost breathless order to get some new cheers.

In order to get some new cheers, the A. A. recently announced that a season ticket for the football games would be given to the one handing in the best cheer. Several have been accepted by the judges for entry into the contest, and Friday afternoon all those who wanted to do some cheering met in the auditorium and cheer leader Maurice Goches proceeded to drum the new cheers into the heads of his scholars.

Mars Green as Well as Red.

A few weeks ago we mentioned that an English astronomer had gone to Tenerife to make observations of Mars during the planet's nearest approach to the earth for the past 18 years. Mr. P. Ryves recently sent the following message to a London paper: "My instruments have been installed at Izama at an altitude of 8,000 feet. The sky is cloudless.

"Mars has been observed at about the time of its least distance from the earth. Snow around both planet's poles is abundant. The south temperate regions are dark and pronouncedly greenish.

"The rest of the side of the planet now visible shows little detail, but there are red color marks suggesting clear, dry weather over this part of Mars."—Montreal Family Herald.

Ancient Bibles.

Many ancient Bibles are owned in Genesee county, according to reports coming into Elm, says a dispatch to the Detroit Free Press.

Rev. George Bedford, pastor of the Congregational church at Grand Blanc, claims to own the oldest one. It was printed in Oxford, England, in 1525. He has another printed in Worcester, Mass., in 1797.

Of the many old Bibles in the country, a majority of them are reported to be well preserved, and are distinguished from the modern Bible by the addition of books to be found in them, such as Esdra, Baruch, Susanna, Macabees.

To Keep a Window Up.

A simple and practical device for supporting windows that have no weights attached is made as follows: Take two double-pointed tacks and drive into the frame, one outside and one inside the window. Drive them in only half way. Then insert a long nail and let the window rest on the nail. The tack next to the nail head should be a little higher than the other, so the nail will not slide out and should be on the inside of the window. By having two or three sets of these tacks on a frame you can have your window raised to as many different places.

A Wife for Seven Pigs.

Wives in New Guinea have a miserable time. It is true they have a high value—sometimes as many as seven pigs are paid for a wife. But the wives are badly treated and often are killed for minor offenses. Yet, strange to say, in New Guinea it is usually the girl who proposes marriage.

ST. JOSEPH'S DANCE

WONDERFUL SUCCESS

Friday evening, St. Joseph's School Hall, was the scene of a splendid gathering of the young people of the parish and their friends. The occasion was the first of a series of dances under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church. The music was by the Imperial Orchestra whose tuneful strains kept the very large crowd in action all the evening.

Mrs. J. W. Leary, hostess, was invaluable, her position a difficult one, she handled with the ease and grace that is her natural accomplishment and wallflowers were conspicuous by their absence. Mrs. Leary introducing the young folks to one another and the result was that everybody was dancing all the evening.

Barytone Sings of New Grocery.

The swaying notes of a jazz tune coming from the sky in a clear barytone voice caused hundreds of shoppers at Eighth avenue and Fifty-second street to gaze upward in wonderment. On the roof of one of the five-story buildings they glimpsed a man holding a megaphone to his mouth. When he had concluded the song the man announced to the world at large the opening of a new grocery and butcher shop on the ground floor of the building on which he stood—New York Sun.

Mrs. Mabel Champion. Walter D. Meals (at desk), Mrs. Champion & John Orgill.

Are women's clothes an aid to defense in a criminal trial? That is a question that stirred psychologists in the trial of Mrs. Mabel Champion, in Cleveland, O., for the alleged murder of Thomas Connell, a Yale graduate. Mrs. Champion and her husband were seated in a restaurant, three shots killed Connell. Both the Champions were arrested, but the husband was freed and the wife tried for murder. The trial attracted widespread attention, because Mrs. Champion appeared each day in a beautiful new black gown, said to have been selected with an eye to influencing the jurors. Mrs. Champion was represented by Walter D. Meals and John Orgill.

BELLINGER LIKELY TO PLAY TODAY

Poughkeepsie High School is playing Newburgh Academy today at the Hill City in the third Hudson valley league game, the result of which will have considerable bearing on who will emerge champions for this coming year. Inasmuch as there will be no meeting of the league officials to act on the eligibility of Bellinger, which means that he very likely will appear in the Newburgh line-up, the odds seem to favor a victory for the Newburgh aggregation.
